WE NOMINATE

David Eli Lilienthal, one of the eminent Princetonians of his time and for well over three decades a decisive force in shaping American "institutions" and national policies, who at a time of life when retirement beckons most Americans is accepting what may well be the most demanding challenge of his career. This 67-year old dynamo has bounced back into the limelight with The White House's announcement that he will lead a non-governmental American team to work with Vietnamese experts on long-range planning for the war-harassed and languishing Vietnamese economy.

The White House, praising Lilienthal's "experience and the high qualifications" he has demonstrated in economic development programs in Iran, Colombia, the Ivory Coast and Malaysia, said that the appointment implements the Saigon Government's request for assistance in planning an expanded post-war economy, including plans for the conversion of military installations. Upon Lilienthal, founding chairman of the pioneering Development and Resources Corporation, which provides both government agencies and private enterprises with planning, management, economic and business counsel, will fall the initial responsibility of assembling a "task force" of economic specialists for this staggering venture.

Lilienthal's retirement from Federal service nearly 17 years ago only signaled the start of a "third career" for the long-time administrator of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the first chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. He became an extremely successful businessman, served as a consultant, made lecture tours and traveled and wrote extensively. In one of his articles, following a trip to the Far East, he outlined the now accepted plan for the development of the Indus River Basin by India and Pakistan, a vision which brought expressions of gratitude from the late Prime Minister Nehru and other Asian leaders.

In 1955 this staunch New Dealer, the son of emigrants from Austria-Hungary and a native of Morton, Ill., and the late Gordon Clapp brought into being the Development and Resources Corporation. The inspiration for D and R, now engaged in major undertakings on five continents, was Lilienthal's who sensed the importance of putting the TVA conception to work in underdeveloped regions. For instance in western Iran, with a system of 14 dams on five rivers, a project involving hundreds of millions of dollars, this firm is carrying forward what one authority describes as "no less than the restoration of the fertile crescent of antiquity."

In the first two volumes of his swiftly paced "Journals," "The TVA Years, 1939-1945" and "The Atomic Energy Years, 1945-1950." Lilienthal, a confirmed diarist since his freshman year at DePauw University, has documented one of the most dramatic decades in modern American history. From his writings, as from his conversations, emerge moving illuminations of "our times" and a portrait of a remarkable and ever-forthright individual whose personal papers now constitute one of the major holdings in Princeton University's two-year old Center for Studies in Twentieth Century American Statecraft and Public Policy.

For his key roles in decisions which have helped shape this era; for his vision in placing broad-gauged planning as well as scientific and technological skills at the disposal of aspiring governments; for assuming a new set of responsibilities of prime significance to a war-weary world; he is our nominee as

This Is PRINCETON

IT WAS LIKE THIS . . .
Goodbye, 1966. The year that will end at midnight this Saturday was a historic one for Princeton: 1966 brought the merger of Borough and Township public school systems into the single Princeton Regional Schools.

And many Princeton residents felt, with merger, that the town had taken a giant step forward toward the time when both Princetons would become single and unified community.

As the year began, back in January, TOWN TOPICS specu-lated on "the possibility of a second referendum in the spring . . ." even though the first referendum, in October, 1965, had left deep scars.

The Township, taking the October defeat at face value, went ahead with plans for its own high school, hired a professional consultant to make detailed plans for the new school, chose a site and held a public meeting so that parents and taxpayers could say

WE'VE GOT A NEW SCHOOL! The new John Witherspoon
School was captured early in June by this parade of happy youngsters who marched into the new building from their two outgrown schools on Nassau and Quarry Streets. For a review of the top events of 1966, see "This Is Princeton."

just what kind of school they wanted their young people to attend.

("Has anybody asked what the kids want?" queried one parent at that meeting, in a question which foreshadowed the kind of year 1966 was to become in Princeton: a year devoted to, harassed by, preoccupied with The Young.)

Six for Three Seats. Both school budgets were received with relative quiet: the Borough's up by $330,000, the Township's by $178,427. The real storm began when candidates for the February elections began to line up for battle.

Three were six candidates
for the Borough School Board;
three backed by S.O.S.,
"Serve Our Schools" group that had opposed merger —
and three backed by C.B.S.,
the "Citizens for Borough Schools."

TOWN TOPICS, which had supported merger from the beginning, supported the C.B.S.
candidates in an editorial:
"This Time the Light Is Red."

"It is a rare occasion," when an editorial states, "when an electorate which made a potentially dangerous and costly path, is given a chance to reverse its thinking within the brief period of four months . . ."

The C.B.S. candidates all
won: Mrs. Bonnie Wagner,
John A. Buckland and Robert
A. Lively. The victory gave the Borough School Board a 7-2 majority in favor of merger with Mrs. William Miller and Board President Graham Rohrer as the two opponents.

With re-organization, Mrs.
Sarah Strayer, a pro-merger
member, was elected president and the machinery toward a second merger referendum, began to move.

The Loose Lined. But Township voters also went to the polls that February day. They went — and stayed and stayed and stayed, in lines so long it took more than an hour for some voters to reach the booth.

The reason: an unexpected
write-in campaign for Orlando Petrocelli had developed during the last days before election. Letters to Township residents of Italian descent and to Negro voters, had urged a write-in vote for Mr. Petrocelli and a defeat for the Township Board.

A hastily-organized telephone "tree" of P.T.A. members brought out long lines of voters supporting the budget.
Mr. Petrocelli ended up with only 143 write-ins and the budget passed.

For a time, it seemed as though a second referendum
might have to wait until fall,
and TOWN TOPICS observed
"It looks like a cold spring and a long, hot summer." In April, 800 residents of the Borough

signed a petition supporting merger.

Early in May, legal tangles were cleared and both school boards announced that a second referendum would be held on June 21.

A merger-study panel, under the chairmanship of Lester N.
Chandler, made its report —
in favor of merger. The Chandler panel rejected both a Township High School and a compromise called the Miller Plan, after the former Borough Board attorney, William Miller, who formulated it. The Miller plan called for a regionalized Borough-Township
high-school, with lower grades
in Borough and Township left
"as is."

"The issues are very complex," stated Alden Dunham,
who served on the Chandler
panel. "There is no question, at least in our minds, that a full K-12 merger represents the best opportunity — in fact,
the only opportunity — for the best education at reasonable cost for the Borough and Township."

Not everyone was happy with the idea of a second referendum after merger had already been defeated. "I feel this has been horribly halfroaded," objected Dr. Charles H. Erdman, Jr., a former mayor of the Borough who had supported merger at one time.

The brawl began to boil in earliest late May. The Township released the report of its citizens group on a Township High School. Mr. Rohrer and Mrs. Miller took their merger objections to Frederick Bauh-inger, who had not yet left his post as state Commissioner of Education. Thomas Cook replaced Mrs. Miller's husband as legal counsel to the Borough Board.

And the pot boiled over

when it became known that a Township School Board member had made an inquiry of State Senator Side Riddoff about the possibility of legislation altering the balance of power on any regional board so that the Borough could not dominate with its five members against the Township's four Senator Riddoff, to everyone's surprise, had gone ahead and introduced such legislation. The all-around embarrassment was acute. Senator Riddoff hastily withdrew his bill and the pot simmered down.

Goodbye, Dr. Stroup. At the same time, the Borough's superintendent of schools, Dr. Chester R. Stroup, announced that he was resigning to become superintendent of schools for Middletown. A loved and respected figure in Princeton for 20 years, Dr. Stroup told his teachers before he left. "It is hard to find the words to express my gratitude to you and to this whole community for the good 20 years we've had together."
"We have done our best to persuade him to reconsider," said Mrs. Straver of Dr. Stroup's departure.

New School Opens. Early in June, a happy and long-awaited event took place when Borough school children moved into their brand-new John Witherspoon School on Walnut Lane.

Moved! They had a parade to end all parades and the excitement could be heard all over the county.
The new school, still minus a chair or two, was the culmination of years of planning and foresight on the part of Dr. Stroup and the Borough Board. It replaced two old and out-dated schools: Nassau Street — the University presented a $495,000 purchase check to the Board in June — and Quarry Street — bought for conversion into a nursing home.

"Yes! to the Future. The momentum toward merger increased. The Borough teachers endorsed it, overwhelmingly. Borough Councilmen led by Mayor Henry S. Patterson gave it their unanimous nod, and on June 21, it passed. The Borough vote was 150 "yes" to 125 "no." In the Township, it was 236 "yes," to 196 "no."
The new Regional Board took office on July 1, appointed by the county superintendent of schools. Its appointed members — Robert A. Lively, Harvey Rothberg, Bonnie Wagner, Thomas Moore and S. Frederick Laschewer for the Borough and Susanne Fremont, David Brodsky, Charles Jaffin and Herbert Bailey for the Township will be replaced in February, 1967, by an elected board.

The new board immediately took steps to peel off the sending districts that were helping to overcrowd Princeton High. Montgomery Township was sold by the state that it had to leave — although an appeal may be pending as this is written. West Windsor and Plainsboro began to talk about a joint high school of their own.

Teens! Was there anything besides merger in 1960? Yes — there was even another school that made news. Princeton Day School, which had been through its own anguish in previous years, announced the appointment of Douglas O. McClure, and he joined the school and the community in the summer.

It seemed as though the kids had been waiting in the wings, champing with youthful impatience for merger to be over so they could move in.

SALARIES QUESTIONED

And Answered. Salary increases offered by the Princeton Regional School Board to its teachers were challenged this week in a letter to the Board from Mrs. R. E. Edwards, 240 John St.

The letter was released to the press, but since it had not been received by the school board, David Brodsky, chairman of the board's finance committee, was asked to comment upon it.

"The Princeton Teachers Association called on the school board December 19 to negotiate salary increases," Mrs. Edwards wrote. "During the meeting the association presented a slate for salary compensations, and the present salary guide is out of alignment in comparison to salaries enjoyed by other communities. The school board is shirking its duty."

Mrs. Edwards asked for salaries "commensurate with teaching ability and with teachers' academic backgrounds" and added that "promises were made during merger that better pay scales for teachers would be forthcoming to date no action."

"If no salary increases are forthcoming, will our school posts go begging for lack of good teachers?" Mrs. Edwards asked. She also said, "We as parents do not like to see this town's public school system continuing to lose good teachers because it refuses to pay competitive salaries; this is shortsighted economy."

Brodsky Refutes Charge. In reply, Mr. Brodsky said: "The assertion that teaching posts are going begging or that Princeton is experiencing a teacher 'exodus' because of its salary scale, is simply not so. A detailed survey of reasons for job changes over the last year, shows only the typical problems that plague any institution employing a high percentage of women; marriage, increased family responsibilities, husband transferred, leave of absence and the like."

Mr. Brodsky also stated that the two boards began salary negotiations with the separate teachers' associations last February, continued them until merger in late June, re-named them on October 19 with representatives of the new Princeton Regional Teachers Association, and continued them all during the fall.

The teachers proposed a 32% salary increase for a single year, Mr. Brodsky continued. This was followed by two board proposals which were modified in the course of discussion.

He stated that the Teachers Association, on December 12, rejected the latest Board proposal although the teachers' own salary committee recommended that the teachers accept it. At this point, the chairman of the teachers' salary committee resigned, presumably because he felt the teachers' rejection was a no-confidence vote, and remaining members of the teachers' committee met with the Board on December 18 for further discussion.

Salary Scale Backed. The Board told the teachers it would continue negotiations on any aspect of the suggested guide, but did not feel it could go above a one-year raise of 10%.

We believe a salary scale built on this increase will be one of the outstanding guides in the state of New Jersey," Mr. Brodsky told Mrs. Edwards.

He added that the proposed guide is in the 95th percentile of all guides in the state, and in the 96th percentile of New Jersey districts for per-pupil salary expenditures. "The guide is structured to reward teachers for experience and academic background," Mr. Brodsky stated. He also pointed out that Princeton is one of the few districts in the state that gives teachers substantial leave with pay to continue their professional studies.

Mrs. Edwards said in her letter, "I begrudge money spent for beautification of buildings . . . would it not be prudent to take some of the money spent on beautifying the buildings of the school system and delegate it to salary increases for teachers . . ."

In reply, Mr. Brodsky said that teachers' salaries represent about 55% of the total budget, and have for the past few years. He said capital improvements for buildings are about 1% of the budget, but will rise to 2% this year because of modifications associated with improving the merged system and relieving overcrowding at the high school.

Teen problems were in the 1960s in Princeton as never before. "We have no place to go," was the cry. The Lions offered $150,000 to build a 15,000-square-foot center, and Roger's, Carrington, patron saint of the young, traced talk of a center back to 1930.

TOWN TOPICS "Question of the Week" repeatedly and anxiously queried teenagers as the year went on. What would you want in a new "township high school"? Where do you want a teen center to be? What do you think of hair? Do you think the drinking age should be lowered?

In February, the high school PTA released a shocker on a smoking and drinking and drugs. "We do not have an addict problem at this age, but we do have socially potential situation that could lead to addiction . . . Young people are sliding into an unhealthy pattern of behavior which begins with smoking and alcoholic drinking."

"Why not help and try to understand a teenager instead of pressuring him?" I may be only 17 but . . . read a letter to TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox."

A committee of teens began with vigor to raise money for their lounge. They said but, too many and washed cars. They started a non-profit newspaper, "The Changing Times." They did home work while 700 of their parents attended a series of Princeton High worker assigned to teen? A School focuses on youth problems.

"The Touch" and "The Cats" two names every teenager will remember from 1968. The First Presbyterian Church turned over a basement room to the kids to folk among smoking, soft drinking and just "being." St. Andrews contributed. The Basement of Trinity the Colfre Lounge.

During the summer, Clay Street was plagued by teens and older teens with adrenalin to spare: vandalism, harassment of residents and general disorder prompted Clay Street to take its problem to municipal officials. Later, when college opened, there were clashes between undergraduates and town teenagers.

Curlew's A full-time social first full-time juvenile police-

ian. The Borough has yet to take the step. Meanwhile . . . quietly, without publicity, high school students positioned the faculty for an advanced course in biology. The summer school for juniors in Cranbury; there were more than enough names to go around for the Kiwanis Club's new "Youth of the Month" citation.

Over 31, A non-teen-ager made Princeton news, too, when President Lyndon B. Johnson dedicated the University's new Woodrow Wilson School building in May.

The work outside the boundaries of the town impinged increasingly. Princeton residents supported or opposed the war in Viet Nam. The Rev. Robert Spoor of Trinity said: Let Christians be foremost among those who exercise the vocations of peacekeepers and especially when mass hysteria begins to create an atmosphere in which criticism of war is made to sound like treason.

A February "Question of the Week" in TOWN TOPICS on resumption of bombing in Viet Nam could have been reprinted in its entirety this last week of the year.

But there was indignation right on the doorstep, too. "Pool Opening Delayed" was a standing headline. The municipal swimming pool was finished before the end of 1966, but not in time for a dip before frost.

Pool fees roused the citizens to indignant letters-to-the-editor. A session for a family was said to be too high. The daily fees were lowered, in response.

Township police surprised everyone by going to the public for a pay raise . . . and getting it, in a referendum.

Hot and Cold, Princeton residents . . . saw an Underrated Flying Object . . . read "In Cold Blood," . . . sweated out 104 degrees of heat in the hottest July in a decade . . . waited in the January cold with 9,000 other people to see "Thunderball" and joined the 7,500 who saw "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in its first five days at the Playhouse.

It was the year the University opened its new $4 million art museum and the fledgling Great Road Players were bombed by zoning laws. The original union, "Balsam," 15 chapters, played the Garden and a fine translation of the Antimemorial by a University faculty member played McCarter.

Trinity Church-goers saw a ballet, "The Covenant," played in their church, and said a regretful farewell to the Rev. Robert Spoor. Mr. Pinch had goodbye to the Rev. Albert Tyson. The Unitarians launched a $300,000 expansion drive and the Galvany Baptists united with the United Church of Christ.

"They grunt and pay it. We grunt and collect," said one shop-keeper of the 2% sales tax that went into effect July 1.

Out of Nowhere. In the world of sports at the college level, the 1966 story was almost entirely that of the Princeton football team. Thoroughly beaten by Dartmouth in their first Ivy game, and not better than 2-2 on the season.

"THE PLAY OF DANIEL": As enjoyable in the 20th century as it was in the 12th, when it was composed by some unknown troubadour, "The Play of Daniel" will be given in Alexander Hall as a Twelfth Night present to Christmas theatre-goers.

News Of The THEATRES

"PSYCHEDELICHTFUL"
"Sham on Wry" Back: A special
performance of Triangle Club's 1966 production, "Sham
on Wry," will be given in Mc-Carter on Monday, January 2,
at 8:30.

Great for a Christmas present for somebody home from college for the holidays . . .

The 50-man troupe will return to Princeton for the performance following a 13-city
tour which will take the club
as far into the vastness of the old west as St. Louis.

"Psychodelichtful" come from a critic who liked the show when he saw it first time around at McCarter. "Sham
on Wry" spoofs LSD, slims, Madison Avenue and probably some other things they left out of the press release.

There's not kick line, as usual, slapstick, topical jokes, punchlines and the usual quips
and magnificent production numbers.

Milton Lyon is the director.
It's his tenth time around. He has maneuvered a mad scientist, a wicked queen, a pack of mastodons and a troll who slipped through somewhere.

12TH CENTURY TRIANGLE

"Play of Daniel." So far as popular can tell, "The Play of Daniel" was created by students in the Abbey of Beauvais in northern France, some time in the 12th century. This places it, roughly, in the Triangle Show genre.

The 12th-century hit will be given, fully costumed in Alexander Hall on Saturday, January 7 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at McCarter Theatre.

Sung in Latin, "Daniel" recounts the Biblical story of the prophet with a musical score
re-created by the late Neal Greenberg from a manuscript
he discovered in the British Museum. A verse narrative in English by W. H. Auden provides the story line for people who do not follow Latin.

The play centers around two episodes in Daniel's life: his reading of the handwriting on the wall for King Belshazzar and his survival in the den of lions. The spectacle includes the feast at which the handwriting dramatically appears,
and a pair of lions straight
from medieval pageantry.

In the cost of 30 are the solistes of the Pro Musica, under the direction of John White, a complete instrumental consort and members of the boy choir of the Church of the Transfiguration, New York.

NOW, ABOUT WELLES

Series Resumes. With the Christmas season past, McCar-ter will resume its film series of Orson Welles retrospec-tives. "The Trial," starring Anthony Perkins as Joseph K., and featuring Jeanne Moreau and Ron-Schneider, will be shown next Wednesday, January 4, at 9 p.m.

Welles' film, based on the famous Kafka novel, deals with an ordinary young man who is charged with a nameless crime by unidentified accusers. He has become the classic symbol of modern man
in search of a way out.

Then "New Wave." Following the Welles, McCarter will present on Wednesday, January 11 at 8 p.m. Francois Truffaut's 1963 hit, "Jules and Jim." Or-iginator of the "new wave"
movement in France, Truffaut was widely acclaimed for his earlier film, "The 400 Blows."
Jeanne Moreau will be in this one, too, as the quixotic Catherine.

Later in January, on the 12th, McCarter will throw out the winter with its annual
"Mirth and Merriment" festival. On Friday, January 13, the theatre will show Charlie Chaplin, "Modern Times," Keaton
and various cartoons.

The month of January will draw to close with Busby Berkeley's "42nd Street" and Gold Diggers of 1933, in a special double-feature. "The King of Camp." The two musicals will be shown on Friday, January 19.

ton for friends of the University who do not necessarily attend the theatre.

Reviewing the seven-year record of McCarter as a repertory house, Dr. Downer says that McCarter can fulfill this educational function for both audiences and actors because it operates outside the "hit or flop" criterion of the commercial theatre.

Continuity... Dr. Downer compares repertory theatre to other kinds of performing arts: "A symphony orchestra does not abandon Beethoven's Ninth at the end of a season, nor to opera company 'Don Giovanni.' Ballet troupes are still performing works created in the 18th century in the same program with those created in the 20th."

"Repertory assumes a responsibility for keeping a dramatic work of art available to those who can best profit from it in its rightful home, a theatre of living performances."

Turning to the actor, Dr. Downer comments: "At McCarter, an actor serves his interests, facing the problems of his difficult profession in a variety of circumstances, and the actor takes one of the pleasures of repertory, for an audience, is watching the development of actors over a period of time."

HIS MAN OF THE YEAR? BUCKLEY: Alan Warren names William Buckley as the Man of the Year for 1966, for saying things that need to be said "at a time when these very things are . . . unpopular." (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Who would he year for 1966?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Alan Warren, 44 Maple Street, ticket agent for Suburban Bus; William Buckley, Jr. He said and done things which need to be said and done at a time when these very things are, in many areas, unpopular.

Robert Solomon, Cherry Valley Road, Graduate School, Woodrow Wilson School: I don't think there is anyone qualified this year. (Mr. Solomon's opinion was echoed by many others who felt there was no one outstanding personage in 1966.)

Mrs. Juana Stevenson, Shilman, secretary: Mayor Lindsay, because I believe he has one of the most difficult jobs in the world and he seems to be carrying it off with a combination of wisdom and wit, which is an effective combination. I think the reason why he's been so successful.

J. B. Shields, Aqueduct Road, employee, Forrestal Plasma-Physics Lab; Billy Graham, I think his leadership in the world of evangelism crusade in Berlin, which he completed this fall, was quite a significant event.

Peter Talarick, Rocky Hill Chief of Police: In the world of sports, I would say Vince Lombardi. All the championship teams he's had. . . he's really an outstanding coach. I think he's had five championship teams in seven years at Green Bay.

Ronald Norman, Sussex, member of the U.S. Navy Band: Thant. I think he's been working probably harder than anyone else for peace in the world and I think he deserves a lot more credit than he's been getting.

Joseph Fann, Somerset, student at Rutgers: Ronald Reagan, because I'm a conservative.

David Bourquin, 43 Wiggins Street, Theological Seminary student: Pope Paul. He seems to provide some impetus for getting something done about Viet Nam. His suggestions for a truce and his pressure for an extension of any truce seem to have some effect.

Hope Tassie, Carter Road, student at Rutgers: John F. Kennedy, because he's my dad.

Mrs. Donna Nicolson, Shady Brook Lane: The first person who comes to my mind is the Lord, Jesus Christ. He was the first perfect man. He was God's love, God's grace to us. And I know He is still alive today! In Revelations 1:18 He says: "I am He that liveth and was dead and behold I am alive for evermore." So that makes Him the greatest man who ever lived. We know He's still living; He said so!

Robert Stein, 294 Dana, 10-graduate postdoc and doctoral student at Princeton Seminary: I would have to say President Johnson. I think in a time of crisis he holds the Viet Nam situation in his hands. It's controlled by him. As far as our American viewpoint is concerned, I approve of our stand there. I only wish it were a simple win or lose solution, which it isn't, so I have much sympathy for the difficulty President Johnson is in.

Marlin Rohn, Morrisville, Pa., owner of The Nassau Shore Tree, Palmer Square: Senator Everett Dirksen on the basis of how he sits questions in Washington. He acts like he is working when most other Congressmen are flying off to Europe or somewhere else on some junket. He's trying to do a job. At least he's in Washington, working where he is supposed to be.

Afred Bahlitt, Trenton, mail clerk for Institute for Advanced Study: The first one that comes to my mind is President Johnson. These are troubled times. I might not agree with him all the time but I feel he is doing all he can.

Dr. George Langmyr, Rocky Hill, working for Princeton Parenthood in New York: I would pick George Romney because he represents what the American people were saying in 1966.

Frederick Brown, Cherry Brook Drive, employee IBM: I think Charles DeGaulle. He has bridged more situations between the East and West. His relations with Red China, throwing us out of NATO, studying England in her attempts to join the Common Market, opposing the invasion of Viet Nam. I'm not necessarily endorsing DeGaulle as the most outstanding man of the year but I feel he has made the greatest impact on world events in 1966.

Mrs. Frederick Brown, Cherry Brook Drive, housewife: The Republican party. All of a sudden, it has taken hold and it's doing something. It's on the march.

Joachim Beer, Hibben Apartments, assistant professor of Russian, Princeton University: U Thant. I recognize his ability as a diplomat and his efforts in promoting peace in the world, especially in Viet Nam.

News Of The Theatres

The dramatic repertoire must also find room... for new works," Dr. Downer continues. "Up to now, McCarter has had all it could do in exploiting the accumulation of past centuries, developing a troupe of players experienced in playing together, learning some of the hard facts about what might be called the expense of the apparatus."

Playwrights Next. Ultimately, Dr. Downer believes, McCarter must play its part in fostering playwrighting talents for the theatre is an inseparable combination of the creative and the performing arts. If it has hitherto been too quick to abandon the past, it must now use that past to nourish the present, both for the stage and for the fledgling Shakespeare or Moliere.

Dr. Downer states that, since McCarter began its repertory performances in 1900, enrollment in the University's drama courses has doubled and in one instance, trebled. Dr. Downer also cites mail from students and teachers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania to show how McCarter's high-school performances have contributed to secondary education in the area.

STEEN TUNING UP
For McCarter Concert, Isaac Stern, regarded by many music-lovers as America's foremost violinist, will come to Princeton for the first time in five seasons on Monday, January 16, at 8:30.

VIOLINIST TO RETURN: Isaac Stern will give a concert in Walter Theatre on January 16 for the first time in five years.

He will appear as the fourth event in the "Music-at-McCarters" concert series. Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box-office.

Mr. Stern will play from the works of Tartini, Bartok, Schubert, Kreisler and Ravel.

PRINCE
Gambit (starts this Wednesday) concerns a valuable piece of sculpture brought back from China by Marco Polo which is the object of an elaborate plot hatched by an attractive pair of thieves, Shirley MacLaine and Michael Caine.
As far as Caine is concerned, it is a matter of the best bid plans going ahead. In his fantasy, as he planned the heist, everything evolves smoothly and effortlessly, with Miss MacLaine involved as the temptress who is to divert the owner of the sculpture. In actuality, trouble begins at the time he arrives in the Middle Eastern city where the treasure lies. The caper backfires with humorous results, and a surprise ending.

Rated "unobjectionable for general patronage" (A-1) by the National Catholic Office for Motion Picture Ratings.

GARDEN
Murderers Row (held over). A Matt Helm super spy travesty, with Dean Martin in the lead role. Martin, with his facile one-line cracks, his bedroom eyes at the various lovelies around him and his continuous self-rubbing about his daily gin quota, makes this color film a typical romp.
Along the way to head off a murderous spy ring, headed by nasty Karl Malden, he meets the gyrating Ann-Margaret in the role of a scientist's daughter. There are some wild chase scenes, a kidnapping and lots of gimmicks. The film is a sequel to "The Silencers" and has the same adult humor.

This Is Princeton

at the half-way mark, Dick Colman's Tigers come back to win all the first and earn a tie for the Ivy title. The key victory was a fabulous 18-14 upset of previously unbeaten Harvard.

Princeton Day School also fielded a championship football team, one that is not a member of any league but achieved unbeaten status as it won all six of the games. Having taken its last two in 1965, Coach Dan Barrett's team finished the year with a string of eight straight.

At Princeton High School, the 7-2 record which Dick Wolf's football team compiled was his best in five years as coach. High spots included a 25-10 triumph over Notre Dame, first such victory to be posted in the PHS record book, and the 61-0 wallop of Trenton High.

In the spring, Gerald Groninger's track team compiled a fine 9-1 dual meet record and won to win the State championship. Hurdler Bart Bennett became the New Jersey schoolboy champion in the low hurdles.

Bill Humes directed the Little Tiger tennis team to a sparkling 11-3 mark, while the 7-5 season in lacrosse was the first time the break-even point had been topped in that sport. For coaches Tom Murray in wrestling and Pete Cook in hockey, 1966 marked the first year of formal competition in these sports at Princeton High.

The top achievement at the Hun School is in baseball, as the Penn-Prince League title falling to Coach Sanford Bing with a mark of 8-1-1. Overall, the record was 10-2-1.

Build! Build! Exciting new construction changed the face of Princeton. The new public library opened in late November to a delighted crowd of youngsters. The old library building, Bainbridge House, will become the home of the Princeton Historical Society.

Public housing for 50 elderly families is on the way to

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR BOYS: A self-contained school for the control and rehabilitation of boys aged eight to 13 will be constructed on State property adjacent to the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute in Skillman. The architect is Kramer, Hirsch & Caridi of Trenton. Story this page.

Topics Of The Town

PLAN SCHOOL COMPLEX
For Delinquent Boys. Young first offenders between the ages of eight and 13 will be cared for in the future at the new $3,633,122 Training School for Boys at Skillman. The contract for general construction was awarded last week to the Rand Construction Company of New York City.

The Skillman project is a training school for boys judged delinquent by the county juvenile court. Its goals are to separate the first and very young offenders from the influences of the adolescent offender and to provide greater flexibility in programming than is now possible at the seriously overcrowded State home for boys at Jamesburg.

Program objectives will be carried forward through small academic and remedial classes, arts, crafts, shops and a recreational program that includes indoor and outdoor activities.

Plans call for a complex of eight one-story buildings on state-owned land next to the new Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. The buildings will include a chapel, six double-unit cottages, and a building combining administration, treatment facilities, classrooms and recreational space. Services such as meals, maintenance and medical care, as well as some utilities, will be provided by NNPJ. Other services as needed will be obtained from the State Home for Boys with which Skillman will be associated through a single board of managers.

VIGIL FOR PEACE

On Christmas Eve, in the quietest of the winter around Princeton on Saturday, the day of Christmas Eve, about 20 persons stood in silent vigil on the corner of Nassau Street and Palmer Square, hoping by their presence to remind posterity of the war in Vietnam.

The 20 moved in size from college students home for the holidays, to Mrs. Katharine McElroy Kent, retired professor of religion and Biblical history at Wellesley and former president of Pierce College in Athens, Greece.

The vigil, held from noon to 1 p.m., will be repeated each Saturday at that hour at the same place. Anyone who wishes to join may do so, even if only for a few minutes, according to Mrs. Kent. The vigil is sponsored by the Princeton Committee to End the War in Viet Nam.

FINAL APPROVAL GIVEN

To Nursing Home Plan. As far as the Borough Zoning Board is concerned, Simon Fried, 34 Howe Circle, has its final approval on his plans to convert the old Witherspoon school on Quarry Street into a nursing home. However, title to the property is still not in his hands, pending further study of his plans by various state officials.

In its original approval, granted this fall, the Zoning Board stipulated, in one of several restrictions, that Mr. Fried obtain the F.A. Bammann property to the rear of the school lot and combine the two into one new subdivision. All existing structures on the Bammann property were to be razed. These included two warehouses, offices and a residential home.

At the December meeting, Mr. Fried's attorney, Thomas C. Jamieson Jr., requested permission to retain the residential building on the Bammann property. It would be used, he said, as a residence for the manager of the proposed nursing home.

The Board agreed, provided the house be used only as a single family residence. Their vote for a favorable recommendation will be passed on to Mayor and Council.

In another case, Princeton University was given final approval on its plans to build a multi-million dollar computer center to the rear of its Alumni Council Building, 91 Prospect Avenue.

The lot is land-locked and the University had won several variances from the Zoning Board last month but one unresolved problem remained: whether an underground cellar floor should be counted in determining the number of stories.

This month the Zoning

Board has given final approval to the Princeton University plan to build a multi-million dollar computer center to the rear of its Alumni Council Building, 91 Prospect Avenue.

Board decided that ground levels around the building established the center as a four-story structure. The University has sought a five-story classification.

C.H. Hill, assistant director of physical planning for the University, told the board that as a four-story building, it may be necessary to build stronger walls on the lower level to support fill. Heavier walls would make any possible future expansion of the building more difficult, he said.

to: the citizens of princeton from: the teachers of princeton

The Princeton Regional Teachers' Association wishes to clarify for the public its present position with the Board of Education concerning salaries for the 1967-1968 school year.

1. The Salary Committee of the Teachers' Association presented its 1967-1968 salary proposal for the Board's consideration.
2. In response to the teachers' proposal, the Finance Committee of the Board presented its own proposal for teachers' salary.
3. This proposal from the Finance Committee was unanimously rejected by the Teachers' Association.
4. A subsequent proposal by the Board's Finance Committee was not acceptable to the Teachers' Association.
5. On December 12, 1966, the members of the Princeton Regional Teachers' Association voted overwhelmingly to keep open negotiations with the Board of Education. Negotiations have been, in effect, cut off by the Board when they refused to consider any adjustment of the amount of funds to be allocated to teachers' salaries.

With regret that this matter must become a public concern, we ask the support of interested citizens in our efforts to keep open negotiations with the Board.

HOAMING NASSAU STREET
 With Princeton T.E.s.
 "Some nights I just walk the streets. The first kid I took home was a 12-year-old. This got me started last February. He was a nice kid, and now at St. Andrew's Church."

"I am doing this," says Princeton Seminary student William N. Knight, "simply because what I experience in Christianity compels me. I can't do anything else."

Bill Knight has taken Nassau and Witherspoon Streets as his mob boss. As he says, he doesn't look "like the kind of a guy who'd be interested in teenagers." Short, heavy-set, bespectacled, 23 years old, he has a compassion and wit that have befriended a number of Princeton's troubled teens.

"I just go out on the chance that somebody will want to say something," he said one morning at the Seminary student center. "If they are you are right there. I'm enough of a clown to stand on the streets and say hello to people. I'm just open."

"His response is either to get very upset or to be open. One. They'll throw you a rough one. If you weather that, then they'll talk about some friend, something that happened two years ago. Then finally, they will bring up something that concerns themselves. I don't blame them. I don't talk about my problems with strangers."

Starting Point. In spite of a heavy study schedule, he heads down Mercer Street towards Nassau in the late afternoon or early evening on weekends, bent forward in haste, tousled, confident, and in the hands of the idle, restless teenagers most of whom he knows. Around 9:30 as things taper off, he'll return to the Seminary to study or go over to the tap church (St. Andrew's) where he heads the youth fellowship.

He's back on the streets about 11 and stays around until midnight or 1 or 2 a.m. "You have to accept people where they are. Work from there."

Flushing a drunken boy out of a doorway, he'll take him as far as his house. "At first I went in with them, but some parents just can't cope with it."

"I've had parents accuse me of taking a kid out and getting him drunk. It's very threatening to a parent when a church representative brings their boy in and says, in effect, 'Here's your son, he's drunk.'"

A Michigan Graduate. A native of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and a graduate of the University of Michigan where he studied sociology, psychology and social work, he notices a different attitude among teenagers just looking back at his own high school years six or eight years ago.

"The kids have an honesty—more than my generation had—yet they're asking questions at such a level that indicates no foundation. They're asking why is it wrong to have premarital sexual relations. We asked only would or wouldn't we obey. They are asking what the rule should be—and why. In school they're taught to doubt, to challenge—but they don't know at what level and they challenge across the board."

Mom and Pop. "Parents don't believe the changes that are taking place, but these teens are very aware. Kids are pretty up on cybernetics, computers taking over. They are aware of a radically different

Remember Them—Even after Christmas!

It may be too late for Christmas mail, but this is the time of year our servicemen in Viet Nam should be remembered. Half a world away from home, they will welcome cards or letters from everyone who will take the time to write them. The word of greeting means a great deal last winter, well after the New Year, meant a great deal.

It will cost only the price of a domestic airmail stamp—eight cents—and the Post Office has announced that it will make every effort to speed delivery.

Topics Of The Week

To Snow Parking Requests.

Whenever forecasts for the next big snow storm to strike the Princeton area are heard, cops can forget the temptation to call police to ask for permission to park overnight in the street.

Borough Chief Peter J. McCrohan said Tuesday at his news conference that the police will not grant such requests. He added that the police had received many requests from all sections of the town last week with respect to Saturday's snowfall, requesting permission to park overnight in the streets. All were denied.

"People just can't understand, especially those who live on a hill, why we can't make exceptions," he continued. "If we don't stand firm, the streets will never be cleaned except by the plows."

other concomitant problem—snow removal—Chief McCrohan again asked for cooperation. A Borough ordinance requires that all snow and ice be removed from sidewalks within 12 hours of daylight after the end of the snowfall. Those who fail to comply are subject to a $100 fine.

Persons who go away should make arrangements to have their walks cleaned, he said. For the police, snow removal has meant years of frustration with repeated warnings to habitual offenders but little result. Chief McCrohan hinted that this winter, there may be fewer warnings and a lot more summonses.

THREE BOYS HURT

When Car Hits Bridge. Three young boys, all passengers in a car driven by Clifford L. Lamar, 41, of Lawrenceville Road, were injured when Mr. Lamar's car skidded into the Carnegie Lake Bridge on N Harrison Street during Saturday's snow storm.

Two were Mr. Lamar's sons, Sam, 13, received a possible concussion, and Alexander, 10, sustained lacerations of the face and a possible broken nose. Scott Richardson, 13, 22 Jefferson Road, received a laceration of the head, which required two sutures, and contusions.

Township police reported in their investigation that the road conditions made it impossible for Mr. Lamar to avoid hitting the bridge. The mishap occurred at 11:45 a.m.

Miss Edith Johnson, 19 55 Park Place, was treated at Princeton Hospital for a laceration she received when she fell out of a car early Saturday morning. Six sutures were needed to close a deep, four-inch gash on her scalp.

Kenneth L. Vannatter, 22 58 Murray Place, the driver, told township police that the right front door of his car blew open as he was rounding a sharp curve on Route 208 (Stockton Street), causing Miss Johnson to fall to the roadway. Time of the accident was 12:43 a.m.

Last Wednesday evening Amarie Trani, 40, 247 Valley Road, was thrown into a snow-bank when his small truck was struck by a car at the intersection of Valley and Walnut Lane. He sustained contusions of his left shoulder.

Richard G. Sowden, 22 of Endicott, N.Y., who was driving on Walnut Lane, was charged by P.I. David G. Wilbur with failing to obey a stop sign. Mr. Sowden was treated for a slight concussion and abrasions of the forehead.

Youth Hit on Nassau. In the Borough last week, John Emerson, 17, of Princeton Junction, was struck crossing Nassau Street moments after he had gotten out of a car near Washington Road.

He was admitted to Princeton Hospital for observation following treatment for a concussion, lacerations of the face and abrasions. His condition was described as satisfactory.

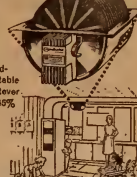

Based on information from witnesses, police reported that young Emerson had gotten out of a car driven by David A. Malt, 17, of the Princeton-Hightstown Road to cross Nassau Street and buy cigarettes. Malt, whom Sgt. Michael Carnevale ticketed for discharging a passenger other than at the curb, said he heard a thud near the rear of his car.

The driver of the car that struck Emerson was the Rev. Edward F. Hunter, 34, of Philadelphia.

sprayed other Seminary students to an awareness that they need not always travel as far as Harlem or Philadelphia to work with youth.

"We've had a lot of parents
come down to The Basement
some say, 'My daughter can come here!' For some daughters
this is right.
"Some of our fellowship
kids don't like what the others are doing... there's kids here
smiling about smoking
than a smoke-filled room,
or about drinking when kids vomit from drink. A drink and give smiling can result in convulsions, and these kids
can be very sick."

Plans For Teens. He speaks

FOR THE FUND: Dr. J. F. Bourland, second from left, general manager of American Cyanamid Company's Agricultural Division, presents the division's combined employee and company contribution to the United Fund, Princeton chapter chairman Arthur N. Cardus. The division's contributions totalled $11,500 with 93 percent of the employees participating. Looking on are E. P. Mooney, Cyanamid's fund drive chairman, left, and M. D. Blumensiefel, Princeton Plant Manager.

hopefully of the coffeehouse planned for Friday and Saturday nights at Trinity Episcopal Church, to be held in the
on the Chatsworth run by college students last summer at First Church. "The Recreation Committee is waiting for Trinity youth. Basement and Town schedules to be set up so that they can fill a gap. The YMCA is getting a new youth director. We have a lot of people who are concerned with these kids."

His roving ministry to Princeton's youth has taught him
a number of lessons. "I tend to be a staunch defender of parents. When parents and children have no relationship, I can sometimes talk with the kids about it. This isn't getting me to help parents ignore, but I am talking to get them in the position where parents can help.
Sometimes kids get so reactive...
tell a boy he can't go out of the house for four months... so he goes and does it all over again."

"The kids know I don't like their drinking. They have never asked me to buy liquor. Some kids I have no effect on."

"It's very difficult, when there's nothing going on in town to stop them. If I should tell them, 'don't get drunk, do something else,' they say, 'Like what? Go home? Not that!' They go over to the University and get the liquor and come back to Nassau Street in a semi-sober
state."

"I'm Just Older." The teenagers
he observes are looking for a new perspective. For someone who will talk with them. "This is why they like Roger Carrington so much. He'll spend time with them."

"More of the boys than girls speak frankly. The girls will talk about school, parents, friends, but never about sex. That's why some of the girls in the Seminary
are doing some of this street work."

He regards the teenagers as equals ("I'm just older than they are and have been a round more.") He has stuck up for them when he thought they were getting an unfair treatment from the police and tried to be the voice of reason to both sides. His wit has quelled many a piece of fast action in the streets or hangouts.

WOMEN ORGANIZE
In Hightstown-Cranbury. A new Business and Professional Women's Club in the Hightstown-Cranbury area has been organized under the sponsorship of the Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Marian Kauffman, secretary and vice-president of the Princeton group, introduced fellow members who spoke about the club's purposes and accomplishments on local, state and national levels. Also addressing the new group were Miss Alice Braveman, membership chairman; Mrs. Ella Geddes, president; and Miss Myrtle Hensor, past president.

A meeting of the newly-formed group will be held Tuesday evening at 8 at the Hightstown Bell Telephone office to elect permanent officers. Women interested in becoming members are asked to call any of the following after 6: Ruth Taylor, 448-1188; Rebecca Greene, 448-1835; Elsie Liedtke, 448-2188; or Wilma Schulster, 448-1018.

SEVEN LOSE LICENSES
For Speeding. The Bureau of Motor Vehicles has suspended the licenses of seven Princeton-area drivers for speeding. Each lost his license for 30 days.

They are Joseph C. Carter, 25, The Great Road; Robert A. Tait, 24, 47 Glenview; College Frank V. Allan, 36, 218 Linden Lane; Ira Melhorn, 35, 3 Brunswick Place; Fredrick H. Raab, 26, 854 Mt. Lucas Road; Thomas M. Martin, 22, Bull Run Road; Hopewell; and Paul D. McConaughy, 32, Hollow Road, Skillman.

VOLUNTEERS PLACED
By New Service. Volunteers are currently being placed in agencies and organizations where they can do satisfying work through a newly-established central bureau. The Volunteer Bureau of the Delaware Valley, located at 402 Greenwood Avenue in Trenton, serves as a clearing house for volunteer workers. Its services are at the disposal of all interested agencies in the area.

Those interested in doing volunteer work are asked to register at the Bureau where they will be given an interview to determine their interests and abilities. Volunteers are then placed in the positions which they will find the most interesting and where they can do the most good.

Available jobs include serving as a leader for children's games and crafts, visiting sick people and helping with office work. Those interested in doing any type of volunteer work should go to the Bureau's office or call 393-7194.

SPORTS In Princeton

TIGERS IN SEMI-FINALS
Face Villanova Thursday. A convincing 27-73 victory over Bowling Green Tuesday in the first round of the Quaker City Tournament at the Palestra, Princeton's basketball team will face Villanova Thursday night at 7:30. The Wildcats recorded the first upset of the tournament when they defeated tenth-ranked Michigan State, 66 to 63.

Off the strength of their clear-cut 40-37 triumph over the Main Line quintet in the Villanova Field House earlier this month, the Tigers are now favored to reach the final round of the tournament. If they can repeat their mastery of the Wildcats in the December 6th game, their probable opponent will be Louisville, second-ranked team in the nation on a basis of both the AP and the UPI polls. Louisville is scheduled to face Syracuse in the other semi-final bracket Thursday.

READY FOR IVY TITLE CHASE: Princeton's basketball team, currently in the midst of the Quaker City Tournament, will begin its drive for the 1987 Ivy League championship with a pair of games against Brown and Yale the first weekend in January. Seated above are Art Hyland '87, Captain Ed Hummer '87, Chris Thomforde '88, John Harlow '84, Bill Koch '87. Standing are Art Hyland '87, assistant coach; Fred Holmes, trainer; Larry Lucchino, '87, Steve Palec '88, Tom Chestnut '89, John Dodd '88, Dave Lawner '88, Gary Walker '87 and Coach Bill van Breda Kolff '85.

Nationally-ranked teams are becoming commonplace on the Princeton schedule. Almost as soon as they return to the campus from Philadelphia, the Tigers will fly to Chapel Hill to play North Carolina on Monday. The Tar Heels began the week rated third in both the AP and UPI polls, the former conducted among the nation's college coaches, the latter based on the opinion of sportswriters and sports editors.

Rankings are invariably a hotly debated form of measurement, based as they are on the opinion of those who cannot see more than a fraction of the teams for whom they are voting. For what it's worth, basketball half Dick Dunkel currently rates Princeton as tenth best in the U.S.

Bowling Green Treasured. A 14-point victory is not exactly a one-sided triumph, but there was little doubt about Princeton's superiority in its first meeting with the Ohio quintet. Just before the Tigers' starting quintet shut up shop for the day, the Orange and Black had a 23-point advantage and the final margin could easily have been 33 if Bill van Breda had not pulled his regulars with better than eight minutes to go.

The contest was close during most of the first half, Princeton getting the first six points, falling behind by five at 19-14 and then see-sawing with the Falcons in the 16-minute mark of the second half. Chris Thomforde's all-around play paced Princeton to its first-half advantage. Bowling Green's effectiveness was blunted by the fact that its leading scorer, 6-6 Walt Plaskowski, drew three fouls trying to guard Thomforde in the first nine minutes, a factor that put the Tigers in a one-and-one situation at the foul line with eight minutes left to go.

They were 12-for-12 in this department at the end of the half, and 10 for 36 for a fine 50% from the floor. Thomforde, with 16, was joined in double figures by Joe Heiser with 11, welcome proof that he has recovered from the ankle injury that kept him out of the Navy game ten days ago.

Surge Gains in Tempo. John Harlow turned hot almost as quickly as play resumed, dropping in two quick field goals. Both he and Captain Ed Hummer joined Heiser and Thomforde in double figures in the early going of the final period.

Bowling Green's outside shooting, extremely accurate during much of the first half, turned cold and Princeton's lead mounted to 65-50 a-d then - with 8:25 to go - hit the high-water mark of 78-55, a solid 23-point bulge. That was enough for Van Breda Kolff, and the reserve quartet took over in force.

Usually loose and ready to play good basketball, the team composed of Dave Lawner, Bill Koch, Al Adler, Robby Brown and Larry Lucchino was cold as a snow bank. They went almost six minutes without scoring, and had it not been for a drought of better than three minutes that Bowling Green suffered, might have been in trouble. The losers cut the big Princeton lead in half before play ended, a basket just before the buzzer by John Dodd setting the final margin at 14. The starting quintet had, however, dominated the action almost the entire time it was on the floor and left the court with its mind strictly on a second victory over Villanova.

Sports in Princeton

WHERE'S THE ACTION?
Some Doubt Exists, Yale and Princeton hockey teams are scheduled to play each other Saturday, and the starting time is 3 p.m. Agreement exists on those two points, but thereafter, it's a question of what source of information you tap as to the location. The Department of Athletics: Princeton lists the contest as taking place in South Orange. The Department of Public Information declares it will be played in West Orange. Not at all, say the Ells, it will be held in Chatham.

Actually, the nod for accuracy goes to the Department of Public Information. The game will be played in South Mountain Arena, which pays its taxes to West Orange.

The contest is one of four which Princeton and Yale will play this season. A non-league affair as was their first meeting, this engagement has been arranged for charitable purposes.

A 7-6 victor in overtime when the teams played earlier this month in the Holiday Festival in New York, Yale has won four of the seven games it has played. All of its success has been achieved on a basis of its ability to score—the Blue has both goals trouble and a weakness on defense. In addition to the Tigers, the Ells have topped Northeastern, R.P.I. and New Hampshire, while losing to Boston College, St. Lawrence and Cornell.

Princeton is still looking for number one, after losses to Army, Providence, Boston College, Boston University and Yale. Until the Tigers manage to curtail the sizeable quantity of goals being scored at their expense, they will continue to suffer defeats. After five games, they had allowed 86 goals, and while their offense had a good deal to be said for it, they cannot score often enough to win an average of seven goals per game allowed to the opposition.

PHS FISH BURNED
As Cathedral Hits 103, Cathedral field goals were as numerous as snowflakes Friday and when it was all over 22 minutes later, the Princeton High School basketball team lay buried under a 103-48 score. The 103 topped by eight the most points ever scored by a Cathedral team.

No doubt happy to say good-bye to 1968, PHS will start the new year with a Tuesday afternoon contest when it hosts a strong Notre Dame squad. The game will start at 3:45.

Actually, PHS lost two contests at the Trenton High gym on Friday. After a surprisingly good first quarter in which Coach Tony Borzok's operatives held leads of 6-2 and 4-0 over the heavily favored Gaels, they were routed by a 42-point second outburst by Cathedral—another school record.

The second battle was staged in the final period. Sensing the century mark was within reach for the first time, Cathedral followers urged their players on. To prevent it, PHS tried to freeze the ball during the final period and the slow-down succeeded in "holding" the home team to 19 points. But it wasn't enough: PHS was denied even this slim satisfaction when sophomore Jack Adams hit for points 100 and 101, with seconds to go.

As for Borzok, it was not the season to be jolly. He headed for the locker room immediately at the sound of the final buzzer. Cathedral coach Phil Keener defended his use of the varsity throughout the third period, which obviously irritated Borzok, by claiming "the first team needed the work; they haven't been able to play together too long."

Wood Still Out. In reality, Cathedral has little to crow about; it was playing against a crippled PHS squad. Foremost was the absence again of its big guy and captain, 6-5 Tom Wood, still sidelined by an ankle injury. In addition,

PHS REBOUND: Rugged 6-11, 160 lb. Jeff Franco teams with 6-5 Tom Wood to supply strength under the boards for the Princeton High School basketball team.

Marty Hines, a starter on occasion, was lost via a school suspension.

Without Wood's height to nullify that of Cathedral's star, Paul Fesko, who hit for a career high of 31, PHS was helpless. Fesko had 19 alone in that torrid second quarter.

Cathedral miss a shot? No matter. There was always Fesko or someone else there to tap it in unopposed.

For Cathedral the formula was about hit it goes in. For Princeton it was either hit on the first try or lose the ball to the Gaels' pressing defense.

SLOW START HURTS
As PHS Loses to Swine, A first half during which it could score but 17 points was costly Monday night as the Princeton High School basketball team lost to Evening, 62-51. The contest was part of the first round in the Trenton Suburban Tournament, held at Princeton on Friday.

Deer Kill Is Higher
Some 700 more deer were killed during the State's special permit season this month than the number taken during the last similar occasion in 1964.
At Pennington, the Mercer County checking station, 143 bucks were brought in for an age examination and affixing of possession tag. This was an increase of 51 over the 1964 figure.
The highest kill was recorded in Hunterdon County, where 399 deer were brought in to the two checking stations at Flemington and Clinton. The total harvest, with reports still being received by Department of Conservation officials in Trenton, is approaching 8,000—one of the highest figures in the current decade.

Although the loss was the "blue devil" thin in many years, the team has steadily narrowed its margin of defeat. "The boys played hard," commented PHS coach Pete Cook. "They're improving . . . we're coming along."

The Blue and White line of Henry Sommers, Bobby Linder and John Patton produced the team's first goal to tie the score at 1-1. Then PHS stand-out Paul Rice put the Little Tigers in front temporarily with a shot from the point.

South Orange's first goal was something of a fluke, Cook reported, "where the puck was bouncing around and ended up in the cage. Aside from that, we really made only one mistake."

Cook cited the play of DeGracia in the net as one position where the squad has been hurt by lack of experience. "Paul made some really good saves," said Cook. "He is much steadier."

As it was, PHS was scheduled to play Englewood instead of South Orange but the form or did not appear because of what Cook termed "a communication failure." Fortunately, we were able to get South Orange to come down at the last minute.

South Orange and PHS were scheduled to meet on January 11. However, since the two have now played, a substitution will probably be made. The Little Tigers next take the ice on Tuesday when they will be at Montclair.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED
In Dog Training Classes, the Princeton Dog Training Club has announced the winners in its winter class graduation held last week at the Princeton High School gym.

John Duffy of Trenton won first prize in the beginners division. His Miniature Schnauzer scored 195 out of a possible 200. Second prize was awarded to Mrs. John Trubel; 42 "Montclair Circle" whose "Corgi 'Katie'" scored 191; and third prize to Mrs. Harold Walker, 19 Hillside Road, Bassett Hound, 189.

In the intermediate division, the Alaskan malamute "Chyen" owned by James Moncur of Kendall Park was first prize, amassing 191½ points; second place was captured by Miss Nancy J. Miller's Samoyed, 188; and third by Thomas Brophy and his German Shepherd, 179.

GALLUP POLI TRIUMPHS
To Stay Unbeaten, Gallup Poli defeated RCA, 56 to 39, in the YMCA Research and Industrial League last week to keep its record unbeaten. John Smith and Kerry Klink with 20 and 13 points were high for Gallup, while Andy Koblar's 18 led the losers.

Ed Riddick, Joe Hirsch and Roger Madden combined for 39 points to lead one-defeated team to a 65-47 conquest of Van Nostrand. Bob Smith of Van Nostrand paced all scorers with 22.

In the evening's closest battle at the Princeton High gym, Cynasid outlasted ETS, 48-23. Clark Lennard had 11 points for the victors, but ETS' Gary Rankin claimed game high honors with 16.

A WAY TO A HAPPY NEW YEAR
To leave the old with a burst of song,
To recall the right and forgive the wrong;
To forget the thing that binds you fast
To the vain regrets of the year that's past.

OPPOSITE PRINCETON INN—TELEPHONE ANYTIME-921-2776

FIVE BEDROOMS . . . brand new Colonial residence on a quiet side road just outside Princeton. The rooms are large, and all the bedrooms are upstairs. This house was designed for a big family, and the children will enjoy a whole acre to play on, as well as the many playmates in the neighborhood. One of the unusual features of this house is the "barbecue pit" in the kitchen — right next to the stove (and both outside of course). If you want to live in the country, yet be only 5 minutes from the center of town, be sure to look at this house.

$37,500

IN THE BOROUGH . . . charming red brick Cape Cod, surrounded by large old shade trees. Living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms and tiled bath on first floor. Also a very large L-shaped porch (with jalousies) which is heated so that it can be a playroom as well as a party room. Upstairs, 2 more bedrooms and another tiled bath. Very private back yard. Close to school and N.Y. Express bus.

$40,000

PROVINCE LINE ROAD . . . elegant and spacious one-story home, freshly painted outside, on 2.7 acres of landscaped land in nearby Lawrenceville. Central air-conditioning. Large living room with fireplace which also warms the family room. Small study, separate dining room with bay window and a view of your own woods, spicily modern kitchen, 2 bedrooms and 2 baths. In addition, a newly-added guest room, wing, with powder room, which also serves as a family sitting and TV room. Outdoors, a beautifully designed and spacious terrace. 2-car attached garage.

(Sole agent) $48,500

TWO-FAMILY HOUSE . . . this is a very unusual and interesting opportunity to live in a charming home with entry hall, living room (fireplace), sun room, dining room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms and bath, and to rent (for a substantial $200 a month) a lovely apartment with living room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms and bath — plus a very useful and attractive attic recreation room. This property is in Princeton, close to Shopping Center and schools, and only one block from the N. Y. Express bus.

$55,000
